

Teacher Only Day Friday 4th June

Reminder that on Friday 4th June, there is a Teacher Only Day so there is no school for the children. It is Queen's birthday on Monday 7th June, so it is a holiday and school is closed. See you all back on Tuesday 8th June.

'Thinking' at the gate

The new white signs are helping keep the carparks clear, but now cars are parking on yellow lines and in the bus stops right outside the school. This means that it is very difficult for the road patrollers to see clearly when making the decision to put signs out. The council are also complaining as the buses are unable to use the bus stop. In the near future we expect that traffic wardens will be patrolling around local schools. Think about how you park as they may issue tickets.

On Monday, a group of Year 6 students went to Fairfield Intermediate to watch their production of Beauty and the Beast. The children were outstanding representatives of our school and Mr Edwards was extremely proud of them as they stood out from the crowd.

After School Care The YMCA are now responsible for providing this service in the school hall. If you wish to enrol your child the details are below:

After School Care

The YMCA is a fully accredited Ministry of Social Development provider who meets all legal requirements and provides our "out of school services"

The fees for "out of school care" can be subsidised by WINZ and students can have a regular or casual booking.

Having FUN in Room ONE

We've been learning about working together as a whanau. Check out our AWESOME tree huts made out of popsicle sticks!

How can I be a positive role model at Bankwood School?
Here's what some of us wrote..

You need to be inclusive and always be the four kinds at Bankwood School & the wider community.

Weaam

If you want to be a good role model, you need to remember..
Always treat people how you want to be treated.

Peightyn

You need to be a positive student, displaying the 4 kinds. You need to make sure you are inclusive and kind at Bankwood School and the wider community.

Lulu

It's important to do the little things well, like walking on the concrete, putting your rubbish in the correct bin and being inclusive and kind to everyone.
